Additional Information

Cases of Note

Jim recently played a lead role in the successful restructuring and refinancing of one of Saskatchewan's largest private corporations. He has also participated in a number of major asset acquisitions and financings. As part of his corporate and commercial practice, Jim advises a number of companies in the value-added agriculture and agricultural biotechnology sectors.

Jim's experience with Aboriginal law is also extensive. He currently advises a number of First Nation clients and their economic development units on a wide variety of business law issues. He was lead counsel for the Government of Canada in the 1992 settlement of outstanding treaty land entitlement claims of 27 First Nations in Saskatchewan, resulting in a precedent setting settlement of over $455 million in cash other compensation to First Nations peoples.

About MLT

MacPherson Leslie & Tyerman LLP (“MLT”) has a unique culture that emphasizes quality, cost-effective legal services, mutual respect and teamwork.

Since it was founded in 1920, MLT has grown to become a western Canadian firm with offices in Regina, Calgary and Saskatoon. Globalization has drawn many of MLT’s clients into ventures far beyond the boundaries of western Canada, and the firm is proud to continue representing them as their business horizons expand.

MLT has a broad client base that includes individuals, small businesses, governments, public agencies and major national and international companies. A fundamental feature of MLT's practice philosophy is that clients are seen as clients of the firm rather than of individual lawyers. This approach matches the expertise of the firm’s lawyers with the particular legal requirements of its clients to ensure that every client receives the best possible advice in a timely and cost-effective manner.
